Call for Eureka Institute International Certificate Course in Translational Medicine

Vita-Salute San Raffaele University (UniSR) is an official partner of the Eureka Institute for Translational Medicine (<https://eurekainstitute.org/>), a non-for-profit association that develops a community of Translational Medicine professionals equipped to catalyse the application of discoveries for the benefit of human health by research and education programs implemented through a range of activities. Likewise, EUREKA is the most relevant research network in translational medicine around the world, with several university partners aimed at research and research education.

As part of the established internationalization process and the continuous dedication to the education and development of its employees, and thanks to the partnership with EUREKA, UniSR is proud to open a call for four (4) available positions as Fellows to attend the upcoming EUREKA International Certificate Course in Translational Medicine (ICC in TM), which will be held in Siracusa, October 10-16, 2026.

The ICC in TM is dedicated to those who wish to enhance their skills, know-how and expertise, while developing a significant network of professional and informal interactions.

The Educational objectives of the course are to:

- Analyse the business, scientific and regulatory aspects of TM
- Explore the challenges that professionals encounter in TM
- Develop critical thinking skills to approach the challenges in TM
- Develop communication skills for presenting complex scientific ideas to a broad spectrum of people.

The four positions - each including all costs associated with the course, the exam and hosting aspects in Ortigia (Siracusa) - will be assigned to UniSR Researchers / Associate Professors or to UniSR and IRCCS Ospedale San Raffaele post-doctoral fellows.

The Call for Applications, along with the associated documents, is published at:
