

Pictures First

Alva Noë – University of California, Berkeley

In this paper I discuss the way pictures affect visual consciousness. I argue that there are ways of seeing that are made available to us thanks to the existence of pictures and picture using activities. Pictures provide the standard according to which direct modes of visual awareness are assessed.
